Alexander Nehmzow B.A., Yale University M.Sc., University College London (UCL)	For his writing-intensive undergraduate degree in History at Yale University, Alex completed a senior research thesis examining the effectiveness of indiscriminate aerial bombing campaigns during the Second World War. More recently, for a Master's degree in Science and Technology Studies at University College London (UCL), he applied the techniques of data science to analyse online spam campaigns, and the methods of investigative journalism to dissect a global cybersecurity attack. At IvyPrep, Alex has enjoyed helping a diverse range of students envision how their unique gifts, personal values, and long-term goals, can be married to specific opportunities in the world of tertiary education – and persuasively articulate this vision in their applications.
Heather Hagerling B.A., University of Chicago	Heather received her degree from the University of Chicago, graduating Phi Beta Kappa with general and departmental honors. At UChicago, she took courses in creative and persuasive writing, and went on to write a senior thesis as well as an article published in the African Journal of Ecology. Upon graduating, Heather moved to Beijing, where she helped students improve their writing and contributed to an English textbook. Now, at IvyPrep, Heather is passionate about helping her students craft strong essays that showcase their unique strengths to college admissions officers.
Joel Lai B.A., University of Richmond	While studying at the University of Richmond, Joel majored in Economics, Greek, and Latin, graduating summa cum laude. He tutored for two years as an undergraduate, guiding and assisting students on essay topics from historical analysis to poetry composition. Joel is passionate about studying abroad, and he received a fellowship for a summer at the University of California, Berkeley, as well as a scholarship for a semester at the ICCS in Rome. He moved to Dubai after graduating, where he tutored students in English. Back home in Singapore, Joel is excited to help other students make their journeys abroad, beginning with well-crafted applications and essays.
Adam Goh B.Sc., Yale – NUS College	Adam graduated cum laude from Yale-NUS College. As an undergraduate, Adam was actively involved in teaching, working as a mathematics peer tutor for an introductory statistics course as well as a writing tutor for the College's Writers' Centre. Prior to joining IvyPrep, Adam worked as an outdoor educator, teaching field biology in various field sites around South East Asia. Adam believes that education is a holistic endeavor, and not merely an academic one. As an IvyPrep instructor, Adam aims to not only prepare students to excel in standardized tests, but to also instill into them the academic and life skills needed to succeed in college and beyond.
